SHOOTS TENANT.

Mr. James Owens of the County Seriously Injures Mr. Thomas Reeves in a Quarrel Over Some Tobacco Sticks.

Mr. James Owens, a prominent farmer residing on the Clarke's Run Pike, near Washington, shot and severely wounded his tenant, Mr. Thomas Reeves, in an argument over some tobacco sticks on his place Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock.

Reeves, according to a story of some of the eye witnesses, had raised a crop of tobacco on the place of Mr. Owens and the former not having enough barn space to house all of it, received permission to store a part of the tobacco in a stable belonging to Mr. Owens. Wednesday morning, together with two other men, he began taking the tobacco from the stable, preparatory to stripping the same. Mr. Owens came to the stable and noticed that the tobacco sticks were being left on the ground in the stable and asked Reeves what he was going to do with them. Reeves replied that he had found the sticks on the ground and that he was going to leave them there. A heated argument followed and Owens left the stable and went to his home and got his gun. Coming back to the stable he told Reeves that he would see that he did clean up the stable.

Reeves replied that he was not afraid of him and that he would not clean up the stable. Owens then shot him. He broke his gun to shoot again but the wounded man begged him not to shoot again.

Reeves was removed to his home and medical aid hastily summoned. It was found that the shot had glanced along the side of his head, making a very severe scalp wound, but it is thought that none of the shot penetrated the brain. It is said that Reeves, believing Owens was about to shoot threw his head to one side, this act saving his life. From the reports he is in no serious danger this morning.

Reeves' brother, Mr. Ben Reeves, came to this city at once and swore out a warrant for Owens, charging shooting and wounding with intent to kill. The man was summoned to come to Maysville and appearing before Judge Rice waived examination and was released on his own recognizance. He will appear before the Grand Jury on Monday.

DR. W. A. GANFIED

Delivers the Dedication Address at the Washington High School Yesterday Morning—Large Crowd Present.

The dedication exercises at the Washington High School yesterday morning were well attended by a large crowd of persons from all over the county. The weather was ideal and made it possible for a great many to attend.

The exercises opened with a hymn, followed by a scripture reading by Rev. Ishmael. Rev. Hooper led in prayer. Miss Edith Berry Hamilton sang a very beautiful solo.

Dr. W. A. Ganfied, president of Centre College at Danville, Ky., gave the dedication address. His subject was American Institutions. He gave these institutions as the home, state church and school. In opening his address he said that Kentucky is entitled to the fame and glory of the ancient Greece and judging from the looks of his audience, Washington deserved to be called the Athens of the state. He said that taxation is the greatest agency of our modern American life. "Of the four great institutions, the home, state, church and school, two rely on the taxes, the state and school. The church is kept by private subscription. The schools depend on taxes more than the state."

Then he asked the question, "Which of any of the four institutions would you be willing to give up?" In replying to his own question he said that he was doubtful if anyone would want to give up any of them as they stood for the greatest things in modern history. One striking statement made by him was that schools render the biggest, best and finest social service of any of the four.

Dr. Ganfied made a very interesting comparison when he told of the woodsman, who before going into the woods to fell a tree always sharpened his axe to the keenest edge by holding his axe to the grindstone. A child sent forth into the world must have its mind held to the grindstone of education in order that its mind may be sharpened so as to feel the "trees" much more readily. He said that he did not mean that education was a grindstone. He said that he had never seen anyone holding a cabbage head to a grindstone.

Following the address of Dr. Ganfied, Miss Casey, of the Hayswood Hospital addressed the audience in regard to the Mason County Health League. A collection was taken for this organization amounting to $11.68. The meeting then closed for the noon hour and dinner.

The ladies of the district served a delicious dinner on the second floor of the building. A large number of persons partook of the good many good things served by them.

Following the noon hour a program was carried out in song and story. The closing event of the afternoon was a flag raising over the school.

MANCHESTER LICKED

In a Fast Game of Basketball on the Floor of the High School Auditorium Wednesday Night.

In a fast game of basketball on the floor of the High School auditorium Wednesday night, Manchester High School was defeated by the local team by the score of 36 to 10. The game was a good one, but was marked with two very interesting fights from the viewpoint of the spectator.

The line-up at the beginning of the game was as follows:

	Center	Maysville
Bell	Right Forward	Wood
Denning	Right Forward	Smoot
Brittingham	Left Forward	Everett
Coleman	Right Forward	Downing
Cole	Left Forward	Browning

The game opened with a field goal by Smoot, followed by two from Everett and another from Smoot. Manchester then scored one on a foul. Coleman and Wood were chased from the game in the first half for engaging in a fight. The score at the end of the first half was 23 to 2.

The second half started with a field goal for Manchester. This was followed by a foul goal for the visitors and then the big fight came. Browning and Cole were the participants. Cole causing the battle. Seeing that Browning was smaller he endeavored to put it over on him which the latter resented. Seeing the two engaged in the fight, in the excitement the larger part of the audience rushed to the floor and had it not been for the fact that the faculty were present the Manchester boys might have suffered severe injury. Wood was reinstated in the game although before the half was over a complete change had been made in the line-up. The final score was 36 to 10.

There will be another game tonight, Carlisle being the attraction.

CHILDREN IN CINCINNATI

The following article, together with a picture of the children, appeared in Wednesday night's Times-Star:

At the Salvation Army settlement on Third street are Sherman, Bertina, Carrie and William Kidder of Millersburg, Ky., a hamlet in the hills back of Maysville. They came here to search for their father, who came to Cincinnati from Millersburg to seek employment. Their mother died and the children decided to join their father. They walked over the hills to Maysville and slept in a railroad shanty. A kind hearted man bought them tickets for Cincinnati and wired the Salvation Army that they were coming.

Just received a supply of Plymouth and Yellow Jacket Coal, for sale at Fourth street yard. Phone 98.

MR. A. DENISTON

Aged Maysville Citizen Passed Away Yesterday at Home on East Second Street.

Mr. Anderson Deniston, aged 73 years, died at his home on East Second street yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. He was owner of Taylor's Mill on North Fork and shortly after disposing of this property some fifteen years ago he moved to Plughtown and engaged in the grocery business. His trade grew rapidly and he moved to West Third street, this city, a short time afterwards. About six years ago he purchased property in the East End and has conducted his business there since that time.

Mr. Deniston was a man of many fine attributes and he numbered his friends by the score. He was a plain, gruff old fellow but his heart beat true and his friendship was valued by many.

Mr. Deniston is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Bernice Layton, who has resided with him for a number of years; also one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes, of near Murphysville. His wife, who was before her marriage Miss Prudence Stevens, preceded him to the grave thirty-five years ago. One daughter, Miss Lida, and a son, Claude, are also dead.

The funeral will be held from his late home on East Second street tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with services by Rev. H. Kerr Taylor. Burial in Shannon Cemetery.

George E. Colby, artist and lecturer, is coming December 4th, for an entertainment on the Maysville lecture course. Colby transfers a variety of conceptions from his imaginative brain to crayon pictures executed before his audience. His pictures cover a range of serious studies of landscapes, marine views and other color effects, and such absurdities as cartoons of public men and drawings made purely to provoke amusement.

The Chicago Daily News says, "Mr. Colby's rapid sketching before his audience has proved to be a most popular novelty in the lecture field."

On next Monday from the corner of Market and Second streets there will be sold to the highest bidder one Reo Truck, several contractors tools, picks, shovels, etc., and several sewer bases. CLARKE FARROW, Administrator.

Miss Kathryn Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Coughlin entertained a number of her little girl friends on Thanksgiving with a "Theater Party" in honor of her birthday.

WHAT A $25 SUIT MEANS AT HUNT'S

We sell suits both higher and lower than $25, but that seems an especially popular price for suits in this vicinity. However, even if you desire to spend more for a suit we will be glad to have you form your opinion of our stock by our $25 values, because it is our experience, that many women accustomed to spend more for a suit elsewhere, have found all the style and quality satisfaction they desire in our $25 garments. This season's models are especially notable for style-variations and the colors and fabrics are equally well assorted.

THE WEEK

It is very remarkable fact that President Wilson's candidacy was rejected in every State in which industrial and commercial development, rather than agriculture, is the chief concern of the people. His support came virtually only from the West and the South. In other words the attempt to show that there was a struggle foreshadowed between capital and labor; between, as some have chosen to express it, those who have too much and those who have too little, had at least a measure of success. That such an outcome; that, especially, such a campaign of ugly and angry prejudice should be shown, later along, in arrogance on the one side and suspicion on the other was not to be avoided. We see it primarily in the declaration credited to Mr. Gompers that, law or no law, those from whom he speaks will not hesitate to use force to gain their just demands if, in the judgment of those who advise them—and that means in the judgment of Gompers himself—they see fit. That is very bold and provocative. It may well be that it is too defiant as expressing a final decision. In such matters it is well to wait on the accomplished fact and the last word of the courts. But, whatever else it may be, it is as far removed from the conciliatory—from the reasonable, even—as it well can be.

'Tis a great pity. For, with the coming of the new year there is like to be need most of all for counsels of reasons, of moderation, and of common sense, and, let us add, not more on one side than on the other. Gompers is not alone in his arrogance. He does but match the bluster of the railroad men and the captains of industry at large. He does but reply to such great organization as that recently formed in New York—the National Industrial Board—which go out of their way to add fuel to a fire that as yet is content to smolder, but that may break out into a devastating conflagration any time.

The people who make prices in Wall Street—and they can not make them and hold them without public participation—are paying little or no attention to a menace that is very real. They have been making so much money, so much more than they expected, that they seem to have entered into a pact, unwritten but thoroughly well understood, to postpone what does not make for betterment just so long as it may be done.

The East which did not elect the President, which did not so much as reach out a helping hand to him, is going to have a regular old-fashioned Thanksgiving nonetheless. It hopes to be able to keep up the procession right up to Christmas and beyond. If any foreign nation—any allied foreign nation, that is, wants to float a loan and invest the proceeds in munitions or provisions, in motorears or machinery, the East will be ready with the cash and ready for the double profit. It has not as yet paid any heed to those who marvel how these colossal debts are ever to be liquidated. It does not believe implicitly in an Allied victory. If it did not it might well pass some very uncomfortable quarters of an hour.

Of course, talk, actually, there is something less in spite of the oft reiterated statement from Berlin that, once the conquest of Rumania completed in shape to put alongside the gathering in a Serbia—now very slowly in course of being ungathered—and of Montenegro, she will consider her task well and duly done and will be ready to come to an understanding with the English and their subsidized cohorts. To this England makes answer that there can be no question of coming to terms with "barbarians" who make a target of hospital ships. And further, in spite of certain shakings up among those who direct the foreign affairs of the empire, there are accumulating evidences, known to be causing grave anxiety at Washington, that the bars are to be let down and submarine frightfulness—all pledges torn up and repudiated—once again to roam the seas. And Germany's plea for such a return would have this much of actual justification—considered as a measure of war that is—that more than at any earlier period she is crippling the Power that must control the seas or starve to death.

And here again we meet another of those matters that will not down and that must continue to threaten disturbance at unheard and unwelcome moments.

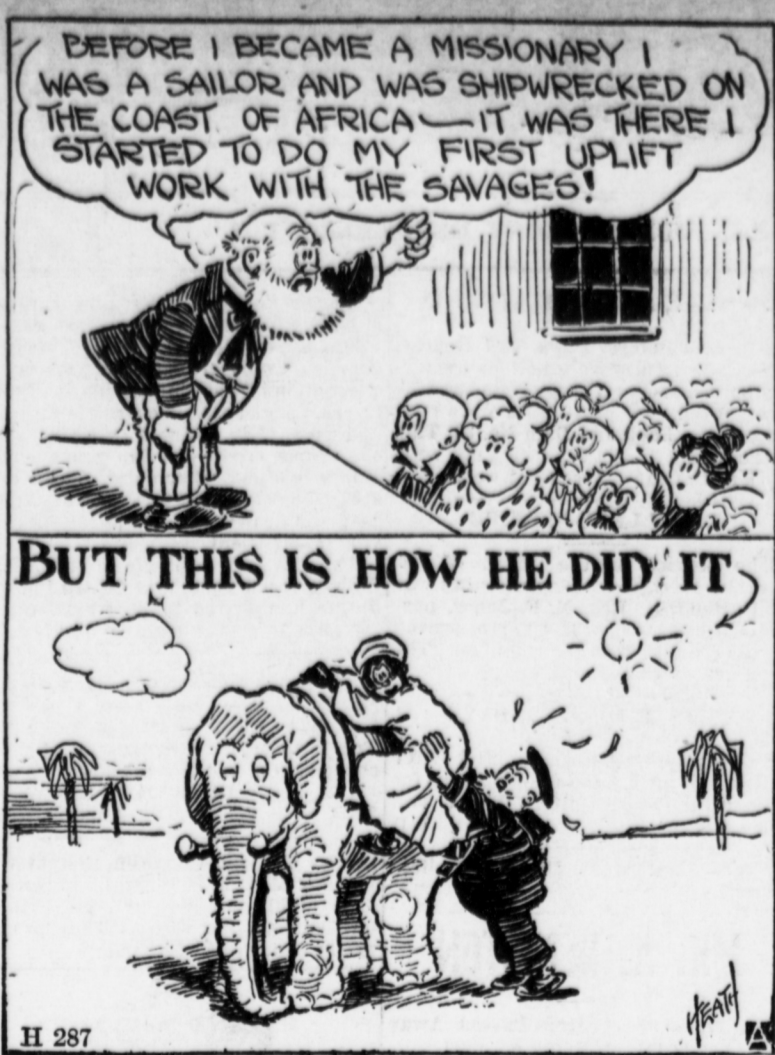

Insofar as the impending session of Congress is concerned it would seem as though like those that have preceded it, it would be very much the voice of Wilson. Whatever the Administration has at heart, and whether it has received a mandate or not, this is the time when it must get busy. The next Congress is like to be organized by its enemies. It will not be ready to eat out of the President's hand and do his bidding.

And, to return to where we started, it would be natural to expect Congress to be busy with the questions arising out of the Adamson law, a decision as to the constitutionality of which is to be looked for before January 1 by reason of the agreed case and the unusual readiness of all concerned in the controversy to have the vexed question settled. And here we may once again point out that it is an assumption of most unfortunate possibilities that the President looks upon the business men of the country with an unfriendly and a suspicious eye. Apart from the fact that a second term is very frequently quite other from a first term; that it is of necessity removed from many of the earlier temptations; that it permits and invites a real and sincere effort to be the President of all the people, there is to be said for Mr. Wilson that he can not fail to recognize that the problems to be faced, the after-the-war problem most of all, can not be envisaged from a partisan point of view. That they will call for a broad and constructive statesmanship is something he has necessarily realized before now.

We find nothing in his career to deny the hope that he may reverse himself, or rather the accepted idea of himself, in such a wise as to protect the well-being of business all over the country. We prefer, in any event, to hold to that belief until the logic of facts comes to destroy it and make it vain.

In a measure the car shortage has been relieved, though not with out a solemn warning by some railroad heads as to what is impending and not without likewise much volunteered suggestion on the part of the inquirers that some sort of Federal regulation is what is needed if a desperate and most aggravating condition is not to return.

By dint of the hardest sort of work and by the co-operation of shippers and transportation companies thousands of cars have been released. The open weather came as notable help. This has been especially true in respect of the threatened coal famine. Locally the situation, while a long way from normal in nevertheless considerably bettered. As we have pointed out before the congestion at the seahoard is very largely due to the lack of freighters. This is a condition for which it would be hardly fair to hold the carriers responsible. When to it is added the tie-up at the Great Lake ports where the coal and ore movements are exceptionally heavy it will be seen that the stage through which we have been passing was actually something out of the ordinary.

From Owensboro comes word of a sale of 25,000,000 pounds of the pool Green River tobacco crop to a firm which is understood to be operating for foreign governments and at prices that can not be described other than as highly satisfactory, ranging, as they are said to be, from twelve dollars a hundred for the best grades to five for the trash.

Grain has been pretty consistently a weak and nervous market.—Louisville Herald.

FOOD EXPORTS

To whatever causes the high prices of food may be attributed, the exports cannot be held responsible. We have been exporting less food in 1916 than we did in 1915.

In the first eight months of this year our exports of wheat were more than 40,000,000 bushels behind those of the corresponding eight months a year ago. The exports of wheat flour show no appreciable change. But a decrease in the wheat exports from nearly 141,000,000 to a little over 100,000,000 bushels is not a change calculated to raise prices, and it must have had some influence in retarding the increase. There was also some decrease in the export of corn.

In August, which must have been about the first month of exporting from the new crop, the exports this year were one-third less than a year ago. The exact figures are, 1915, 16,838,313 bushels, and 1916, 11,059,980 bushels.

The export of canned beef in the eight months dropped over 23,000,000 pounds, or almost 40 per cent. The exports of fresh beef fell off 58,000,000 pounds, or nearly one-third. Pickled beef fell off one-third. Bacon showed a substantial increase, but it was not quite one-third. There was a very slight increase in hams and shoulders. There was a decrease of 22,000,000 pounds in lard. The increase in pickled pork was under 10 per cent.

The value of all the meat exports was worth, in round figures, $176,000,000 last year and $179,000,000 this year. The increase is very small, and in view of the advance in prices, it proves that the quantity exported was less than last year.

The wheat crop is undeniably short, though it is nearly or quite equal to the domestic requirements, and a large surplus was brought over from last year. Probably the main factor in the increase of food is the universal employment at high wages, as a result of which the working people are buying more and better food than ever before. The wheat market shows some signs of manipulation. The supply of animal food has been scarcely keeping pace with the growth of population, and the increased prosperity of the wage-earners has given a sudden stimulus to the demand.—Philadelphia Record.

One of our merchants suggests that the name of the Tobacco and Corn Fair be changed to "Maysville's Fall Exposition and Carnival." This is a good idea and should receive the serious thought of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Bad blood on the border," says The Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph. But be correct neighbor! It's only on the other side of the border the bad blood has its abiding place.

THE CRIMES OF THE CAT

(New York Tribune)

It is a very damning indictment which Mr. Edward Howe Forbush, State Ornithologist of Massachusetts, draws against cats in the Journal of American Museum of Natural History. There are 25,000,000 cats in the United States, and those in New York State alone kill 3,500,000 birds a year, he estimates. They have exterminated certain species of birds. They destroy frogs, rabbits, shrews, moles, toads and lizards, and if so many insect destroyers hadn't been cut off in their prime who knows but that the gypsy moth, the brown-tailed moth and the elm-tree beetle might have been kept in their proper place instead of erupting all over the face of nature and costing the state of Massachusetts $9,000,000 in one year? Expensive little feral ornaments, you see.

If you must have a pet other than a dog or a pony or a baby have something useful, suggests Mr. Forbush. A nice little shrew, for example, or a cold handful of toad, or perhaps a lizard or a salamander. We confess that ever since Mr. Kenneth Kraham wrote about Mr. Toad in his "Wind in the Willows" we have entertained a rather amiable interest in the family. In addition to such companionship as you would get from your little friend you would have the satisfaction of knowing that he was nobly raiding the insect world in your belief when not on duty in your lap. Licenses for cats is Mr. Forbush's demand. Such a system would cut their numbers in half, he believes.

There is something on the other side of the ledger. If we destroy the cats who destroy the toads who destroy the gypsy moths, who will be left to destroy the rats and mice? Irish ratters, you answer. An excellent idea if every cat destroyed should be replaced by a good ratter. But good ratters are not frequent even among terriers, and there are endless honest, law-abiding human beings, strange as it may seem, who will have a Tabby and will not have a dog. So the rats and mice would play, we fear, if any large raid upon cats were effected.

That is one reason why it will be hard for Mr. Forbush to prevail. And there are others. Cats utterly refuse to die. They propagate with miraculous efficiency and their defenders are legion. They have a way with them, a feline, feminine way, and there is no denying its lure. Many, many things and beings ought to be put out of any just and intelligent system, and yet they persist in this world of ours year after year. Hogs in the shape of men and cats in the shape of women, for example. Any little thing we can do to help Mr. Forbush we shall be glad to do. But his goal is the millennium, we fear.

WHY NOT HALF NICKEL

(Boston Globe)

The ham sandwich, which was once five cents now frequently costs a dime. The same disturbing truth applies to other thing sin common life, but inside and outside of lunch rooms. There is no need of statistics from economists to inform that the cost of living has advanced. Every spender of money knows it. Retailers are more reluctant to put prices up than is generally realized. They know that consumption decreases as prices advance. That means less business and profits depend partly on large business. When more than the traffic will bear is charged the traffic falls off.

Change making is one of the items in up-to-date retailing. It must be done quickly if expenses are to be kept down. The young woman at the lunchroom desk has not time to count pennies. She must deal in nickels, dimes and quarters if she is to maintain her astonishing speed and accuracy. To raise prices two or three cents would necessitate an extra cashier, that would mean an extra salary.

We need another coin. Three-cent pieces were confused with dimes and were hard to use, because they were not fractions of other currency. No one but a statistician thinks in decimals. The rest of us do our sums in fractions. Four three-cent pieces make 12 cents, but there is no such coin. Eight of them make 24 cents, but the coin almost corresponding is worth one cent more. If three-cent pieces were again issued they would not fill the bill.

With a half-nickel it would be different. Half a nickel is a fraction of every coin from the mint. Were there such a coin five-cent raises would not have been so common. If there should be such a coin many prices would come down.

The form and material for a half-nickel is a problem for the real makers of money. That it should be produced is a concern of us all.

WON MINNESOTA BY 392
St. Paul, Minn., November 28 — Charles E. Hughes's plurality in Minnesota at the recent Presidential election was 392 votes, the State Canvassing Board determined today. Discovery of slight errors in the original tabulation resulted in a net loss of four votes by Mr. Hughes, the final official count being: Hughes, 179,544; Wilson, 179,152.

U. S. CONSIDERS FURTHER PLEAS FOR BELGIANS

Deportation Problems Discussed at Cabinet Meeting and Gerard Stays Over for Session Today—Germanians Say Action Military Necessity.

Washington, November 28 — New representations are about to be made to the German government by the United States concerning the deportation of Belgian citizens for labor in Germany. What form they shall take has not yet been determined, but it became known tonight that the administration is seriously exercised over the matter and is preparing for its next step with great deliberation, hoping to make it effective without straining the relations between the two countries.

American Charge Grew, at Berlin, recently took up this question informally with the German foreign office and at the State Department's direction said that a most unfavorable impression was being created in neutral countries, particularly the United States.

Grew's Efforts Falls
His effort was unavailing, however. The foreign office, in a note now on its way to Washington, replied that deportation of the Belgians was a military necessity and was being carried out in accordance with international law governing the treatment of population in conquered territory.

The charge's preliminary report, the latest appeals for aid from the Belgian government and other information in the hands of the State Department were discussed at today's cabinet meeting, and Secretary Lansing remained with the President for nearly half an hour after the other members left. Ambassador Gerard, here for final conferences before returning to Berlin, and Colonel E. M. House also talked over the plight of the Belgians during visits to the White House and the State Department. It was said later that this situation had made such a profound impression that for the present at least, it had displaced interest in the submarine issue.

Gerard Waits for Conference
Ambassador Gerard did not see the President, but at Mr. Wilson's request, deferred his plan to leave for New York and will see him tomorrow. Regardless of whether it is decided to instruct Charge Grew to act further immediately in the Belgian matter, the ambassador will be given the President's personal views on the subject as well as conferring on the latest developments in submarine warfare.

State Department officials admit that the government is proceeding with the greatest difficulties in endeavoring to help the unfortunate Belgians. They say that virtually the only basis for representation is the broad ground of humanity and that it is almost impossible to establish an incontrovertible statement of the facts in the case.

The refusal of the British government to grant safe conduct to Count Tarnowski, the new Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, also was brought up at today's cabinet meeting and dissatisfaction was generally expressed. Any steps that may be taken by the United States will be delayed until full consideration has been given the British note on the subject.

THOUSANDS SENT BACK TO FRANCE FROM GERMANY 'IN ACCORDANCE WITH PROMISES MADE'

Berlin, November 28 — The following item was given out for publication today by the Overseas News Agency:

"According to promises given to the inhabitants of Lie and other towns in occupied territories in France, the following number of persons have been transported back there:

"Up to August 1, 1916, 1,993 persons, who were either incapable of working or whose removal from their homes had proved especially severe.

"From the beginning of October until the middle of November, 6,477 persons, mostly women, whose work no longer required.

"The competent military authorities have received an order to transport back, up to the end of the year, all persons with the exception of those who wish to stay in their new residences. Since it is most probable that the French Government will assert that these measures were taken in consequence of its protest and the intervention of neutral Governments, it is expressly stated that neither unfounded protests nor intervention has in any way influenced the decision of the German military authorities. The transport back home of these people was carried out exclusively in accordance with the promises given them at the time of their removal."

The weight of the average man is 140 pounds; of a woman 115 pounds.

The American Charge d'Affaires in Berlin recently protested to the German Government against the deportations at the request of the State Department. Representatives of other neutral countries did likewise.

ALL PRECAUTIONS

Being Taken By Livestock Men To Prevent Renewed Outbreak of Hoof and Mouth Disease—Are Taking Chances.

Chicago, November 28 — Facing the possibility of a renewed outbreak of the hoof and mouth disease, livestock men here awaited with some anxiety today the outcome of the Federal diagnosis of suspected herds in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

Dr. S. E. Bennett, head of the Bureau of Animal Industry in Chicago, with Dr. F. C. Day, Federal veterinarian, and Dr. F. S. Mather, an expert in stock plagues, left here last night to investigate suspected cattle in the Kansas City yards today. Results of the inoculation tests, however, will not be known for several days, and it is expected that the Kansas City quarantine will remain effective until then.

Meanwhile authorities here announced that the precautionary measure taken by Dr. O. D. Dyson, State Veterinarian of Illinois, prohibiting the shipment to the stockyards of Chicago and East St. Louis, except for immediate slaughter, of any cattle, swine or sheep from Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska, will not be rescinded until all possible danger of infection is believed past. Officials of the Chicago Union Stockyards and Transit Company asserted also that their embargo order against livestock from all points west of the Missouri river will be effective as long as it seems necessary as a precautionary measure.

"Whether there is a new outbreak will not be known until the government inspectors have completed their examination and reported," said O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards. "Our biggest business shipment of cattle for immediate slaughter will continue. The embargo is upon 'feeders,' which because of lightness of weight are sent to pasture from this market."

KENTUCKY TROOPS WILL SOON GET A TASTE OF REAL GUARD DUTY

El Paso, Texas, November 28 — The First Infantry Brigade of the Tenth Provisional Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Roger Williams, of Louisville, Ky., is now composed of four regiments, three Kentucky regiments and the Second South Carolina Infantry. Upon the departure of the First South Carolina Infantry recently Col. Walter K. Wright was relieved from the command of his regiment.

The Twenty-third Infantry and the remaining regiments of his brigade, the Second South Carolina, were brigaded with the First, Second and Third Kentucky Infantry regiments. On next Friday, the Second South Carolina and the First Kentucky will leave for their comfortable camps near Ft. Bliss and will be broken up into company units and scattered along the border from Las Cruces, N. M., Hancock, Tex.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Stamford, Conn., Nurse Tells How She Found Health

Stamford, Conn., "I am a nurse and suffered from a nervous breakdown. I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and nothing seemed to help. By chance I heard of Vinol, and after taking the first bottle I noticed an improvement, and four bottles made me well and strong, it gave me a hearty appetite, so I can sleep soundly night or day. I consider Vinol a wonderful tonic." Edith R. Forbes, Stamford, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in overcoming such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and goes to the seat of the trouble. It is the greatest strength creator we know—due to the beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates which it contains, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine.

We have seen so many wonderful recoveries like this right here in Maysville caused by Vinol, that we feel perfectly safe in offering to return money in every such case where Vinol fails to benefit. John C. Pecor Drug Co., Maysville. Also at leading drug stores in all Kentucky towns.

MR. A. J. McDOUGLE

Dies at His Home West of the City Wednesday Morning About 7:30 O'clock—Was Very Prominent Man in This County.

Mr. A. J. McDougale of the West End died at his home that morning about 7 o'clock after a short illness of a complication of diseases. Mr. McDougale was taken sick on Saturday and suffered intensely until the end came on Wednesday morning. Andrew Jackson McDougale was born in Maysville, Pa., in July, 1833. He removed to this county when a rather young man, taking up his residence at Germantown. While at Germantown he married Miss Mary Cushman and later removed to Maysville where he lived until his death. He was a resident of Maysville for more than 60 years.

Mr. McDougale was connected with the drygoods business in this city during the early part of his residence here, owning at one time one of the largest drygoods stores in the city. For a while he was owner of what is now the J. T. Kackley & Co. Book store but was engaged in this business only a few years, returning to the drygoods business. Since his retirement, about 20 years ago, he has spent his time on his estate west of the city.

Mr. McDougale was a consistent member of the Christian Church of this city, being an elder in the same. He was very kind and considerate of his fellowmen and he was always characterized as a Christian gentleman.

He leaves his wife and three children, Mrs. E. L. Boyd of Denison, Tex., Miss Anna McDougale of this city and Mr. C. O. McDougale, a traveling salesman.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Christian Church. Burial will be made in the Maysville Cemetery. Services conducted by Rev. A. F. Stahl.

AUGUSTA LADY WEDS

(Portsmouth Times)
A pretty wedding was solemnized Monday afternoon, at one o'clock, at Bigelow Methodist church, where Miss Ella Ethelin Berry, and Mr. Alexander William Dann were married in the presence of the immediate relatives. Rev. Charles E. Chandler officiated with the impressive Methodist Episcopal ring ceremony. The attendants were Mrs. Jessamine Church, a special friend of the bride, and Mr. Samuel Hibdon, of Pittsburg, Pa., a classmate at college of the groom. The attractive bride was attired in a handsome tailored suit of blue and wore a corsage bouquet of violets, and her matron of honor wore gray velvet, with corsage bouquet of pink roses. Dr. Edward Berry, of Columbus, a brother of the bride, was a guest at the wedding. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for New York and sailed today for the Bermudas, where they will spend a month, after which they will return to Portsmouth, where Mr. Dann is treasurer of the Dravo Contracting Company and a splendid young man. Miss Berry, an unusually attractive young woman, has many friends in Portsmouth, where she has spent much of her time. She has a beautiful voice and has appeared in public in this city numerous times and for many months was vocal soloist at the First Presbyterian church, where her voice was much appreciated. Miss Berry came here from Augusta, Ky., her old home, where her mother died several months ago.

NIGHT RIDERS
(Fleming Gazette)
Night riders were abroad in Fleming county Saturday night, when they waited on W. W. Peck at Sherburne and served notice on him that no more tool should be collected at the Sherburne bridge. Notice was also left at the door of the gate keeper, Mrs. Katie Breen, notifying her that no more tool should be collected after 15 days. Mr. Peck is in no way connected with the bridge company and the raiders must have been under a misapprehension concerning him, he says.

Mr. Peck says he was aroused about 1 o'clock and going to the door asked what was wanted. He opened the door and found six men who said they meant business, the nature of which Mr. Peck at first was unable to understand. He invited them in, but they did not come, but stated their mission plainly and went away after leaving with him a written notice.

The party was composed of about 8 men, coming from the Bath side of the river. Two remained back while six came forward to do the talking to Mr. Peck. They are said to have come in auto or autos and left the machines on the Bath side while they walked across the bridge.
